Special Services
AT ST. MARY'S FOR
40-HOUR DEVOTION
Forty hours' devotion in honor of the 40 hours during which the body of Jesus lay in the tomb will be held at St. Mary's church beginning Thursday. Confessions for women and children will be heard from 8 to 9 p. m.

Masses Friday will be said at 6, 7, and 8:30 the last to be the mass of exposition followed by a sermon. Devotions, sermon and benediction, followed by confessions will be held at 8:45.

Masses and devotions will be at the same hours Saturday and Sunday. Men of the Holy Name society will go to confession from 3 to 6 and after the evening devotion.

The mass of the exposition will be held at 8 a. m. Sunday and other masses will be at 7:30, 8, and 10:30. Members of the Holy Name society, Knights of Columbus and Catholic Council of Men are to receive communion in a body at the 7:30 mass. A breakfast will be served in the church basement after the masses. Solemn closing services will be held at 7:45 Sunday night. There will be a procession with the blessed sacrament.

The devotion of forty hours dates back to 1534 when the canon of the Holy Name society was first instituted. Every Catholic church throughout the country has these devotions once a year.

Women of the parish are to don white flowers to decorate the altars during the services.

CAMP GRANT MAY BE REFORMATORY SCHOOL
(By Associated Press.)
Washington—President Harding has approved the plan for converting certain penitentiaries into vocational reformatory training schools for first offense prisoners between the ages of 15 and 30, now in federal prisons, Attorney General Daugherty said after a conference at the White House.

Herbert H. Votawa, superintendent of prisons, participated in the conference. The attorney general said Camp Grant would probably be utilized for this purpose and estimated that between 400 and 500 men, now in prison, would be eligible for admittance to the reformatory schools.

Janesville Man Invents Device for Towing Car

A device promising to be of great benefit to motorists in general and to motorists in particular, if it will do all the inventor claims for it, has been invented, and the patent applied for, by George Boatman, 311 North Franklin street. It is a detachable device which fastens to a car or trailer to be pulled and to the car that is to do the pulling. The great advantage is that no driver is needed in the towing car, for the device both steers it and regulates it in going down a hill. No ropes are needed, and when the apparatus is perfected, motorists will be able to attach one to both cars in but a few minutes.

The model Mr. Boatman is now working with is larger and more cumbersome than it will be when completed. One piece of several parts clamps to the front axle, with an arm attaching to the steering gear. This works automatically as the car in front turns. The piece attaching to the pulling car is also simple. It also clamps to the front axle, and a spring is attached to absorb the shock of starting and stopping suddenly. In this way, no attention need be paid to the trailer, even going around corners.

The inventor hopes to put the device on the market soon. They can be made to sell for $15 each, he says, and perhaps cheaper, after the parts have been made in quantity. The arrangement is to be made small enough to fit in an ordinary auto tool chest.

Mr. Boatman and his wife came here last December, made their home here. He is employed at the St. Paul roundhouse. He has had the idea for this invention for two years, and now that it is nearly completed, is working out another plan.

Atomic Theory Still Stands, Says Arbuthnot

Announcement that the atomic theory has been blasted, made at a meeting of the middle western sections of the American Chemical Society at Northwestern University recently, will not revolutionize the teaching of physics and chemistry, according to a statement made Thursday by John Arbuthnot, head of the major science department in the high school. Mr. Arbuthnot thinks the announcement matters little, and that only one or two new facts, which are of minor importance, have been discovered.

A great many questions were asked in both the chemistry and physics classes at the high school recently, following a dispatch that "chemists blast atomic theory" and "metal transmutation is accomplished." Atomic theory is the basis of many laws concerning things studied in both these sciences and a change in the teaching of them would naturally be expected. However, as the discoveries are of such minor importance, the text-books remain accurate, and no change in the teaching system will be necessary, according to Mr. Arbuthnot.

The astounding announcement concerning the transmutation, was the result of an experiment tried by Dr. Gerald L. Wendt and C. E. Iron, while working at the University of Chicago. It is claimed that by means of intense heat, tungsten, which is used in the filaments of electric light bulbs, had been definitely and permanently changed into another element, helium. The heat necessary had been between 50,000 and 60,000 degrees.

The inference, drawn from the report read at the conference, was that this was the first time that atoms had been changed from one element to another. This inference, however, Mr. Arbuthnot says, is wrong, and his principle is not taught in the schools at present.

"Since the discovery that radium changes, of its own accord, into lead, scientists have been aware of the fact that atoms are changeable," said Mr. Arbuthnot. "Not since that discovery was made has it been thought, or taught in the schools, that atoms were indestructible, or were the smallest units. The fact that transmutation was made by heat is new, however, as before, the radium had changed chemically without the addition of heat."

PASSAGE OF BONUS IN U. S. SENATE IS BELIEVED CERTAIN

bonds. Also about a billion dollars has been absorbed in municipal tax exempt bonds—and nobody knows how much more. Ask the bond houses—they will tell you they can't put issues on the market fast enough to meet the demands of investors. Also, notice the splendid way in which the country has responded to the refunding plans of the treasury. Here are up for sale the Victory bonds recorded in large part long before the maturity date. I am convinced that the country would never fail to issue of short time treasury certificates sufficient to take up the Victory bonds for two to five years—until the British are able to resume payment to us on the war debt.

Rewriting Is Expected.
Mr. McCormick didn't attempt to predict what President Harding would do with the bill if it were passed by both houses. He isn't sure of a veto as are some of his colleagues, though it is evident, he like the others, is counting upon a rewrite of the bill. The Illinois senator declares the opposition to the bonus will not succeed in dilatory tactics. In fact he says those who are against the measure are as eager to have it brought up and voted upon and gotten out of the way as are the proponents of the bill. He seems to think the bonus ought not to be permitted to clog the legislative calendar and prevent other legislation from being enacted especially in this, a campaign year.

Senator McCormick gauges correctly the sentiment of the senate if the bonus bill comes to a vote. For as was shown in the house, the number who finally oppose the measure dwindles. There would seem to be a majority who would shelve the measure if they could do so without a record vote but the senators who are opposed to the bill are bound to pursue aggressive tactics and keep the bill before the senate.

Men like Senator McCumber, chairman of the senate finance committee, and Madell McCormick, who are candidates for re-election, will not allow the measure to slumber and it doesn't take a large group in the senate to compel action of some kind. Once the bill is voted upon, a majority is assured.

Whether a two-thirds vote can be mustered in the senate to override a presidential veto will depend upon the development of public sentiment after the passage of the bill and an expression from the president. So far as the house is concerned it can be counted upon to pass the bill by a two-thirds vote if necessary. The vote of 303 in favor of the measure recently is a clear index of the strength of the bonus bill in the face of announced presidential opposition.

Measures May Quit.
The president is committed to a veto unless a sales tax is enacted as a revenue producer. If he doesn't veto it, he may lose Andrew Mellon as secretary of the treasury. But thus far he has given every indication that he is for the bonus bill. The bonus seems to be the liveliest issue in congress. It slumbers for a while and then bobs up again. Senator Madell McCormick's prediction is significant—it means action on the bonus bill and probably passage by the senate after the naval treaties now pending are ratified.

MONEY WAS LOAN, SAYS POO; GIFT, SAYS LANDLADY

Madison—Too Chan Tang, wealthy Chinese student at the University of Wisconsin, found himself entangled in American law Tuesday when he appeared in United States district court here and asked that some way be found by which he could recover $4,445 he gave his landlady to help her buy a $20,000 house.

Mrs. Anna Nordness, the landlady, and her daughter, Gladys, testified they understood the Chinese student had made an outright gift of the money. They showed that the deed to the house is in the name of the daughter, Gladys, which was witnessed by the student. Tang has no security to show for the funds he turned over to Mrs. Nordness. He said, though, he understood he was getting a note for the amount, but his landlady alleges that there were no stipulations.

Judge Claude J. Luse decided the money was given as a loan and extended the time to 10 days in which attorneys might file briefs.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

George Morton goes to work at the home of Planter, a rich man, when his father loses all his property—a livery business. George becomes a horse trainer and as a part of the job acts as groom to Sylvia Planter when she rides. Sylvia is thrown from her horse and thinking her unconscious, George kisses her, calling out that he loves her. She drives him from the place and George threatens her brother, who goes to horsewhip him, but in a fair fight. He seeks an education, goes to Princeton, meets Betty, a tutor, gets a place on the football team and aids his college to win from Harvard. He makes many acquaintances, and has determined that Sylvia Planter shall marry him and meets her several times, each time seemingly widening the breach between them. But in the determination, Betty Allison is very kind to George, and at her home meets her friend, Sylvia, which is embarrassing. George gets a job with a brokerage office, makes a success, and in college secures a high social position. But Sylvia still flouts him, showing preference for a classmate who proves to be a scoundrel. Dalrymple, George's room training camp and says farewell to Sylvia before sailing to fight overseas. Dalrymple, an enemy of George, goes to be the favorite with Sylvia. George returns from war after saving Lambert, who is despondent and ungrateful. He fights the restlessness and ungrateful apparent following the war, but makes no headway with Sylvia.

In these groups George was glad not to see Dalrymple often, but he noticed that Goodhue was near rather more than he had been formerly, and he experienced a sharp uneasiness, an instinct to go to Goodhue and say:

"Don't. Keep away. She's caused enough unhappiness."

Still you couldn't tell about Goodhue. The very fact that he fluttered near Sylvia might indicate that his real interest lay carefully concealed, some distance away. He had, moreover, always stood singularly aside from the pursuit of the feminine.

George's first meeting with Betty since her return was colored by her frank acceptance on her part of new conditions that revived his sense of a sombre and helpless nostalgia. All was well with Betty. If there had ever been any doubt in her Lambert had swept it away. Whatever emotion she experienced for George was, in fact, that of a fond sister for a brother; and George, studying her and Lambert, longed as he had never done to find some such eager and confident content. The possession of pure ambition slipped from his desire for Sylvia. With a growing wonder he found himself envying through her just the simplicity she so fearfully experienced by Lambert and Betty. Could anything make her brilliancy less hard, less headstrong, less cruel?

George cast about for the means. Lambert was on watch. There was still time—plenty of time. He hadn't spoken again to Lambert about Dalrymple. There hadn't seemed any point, for Lambert was entirely trustworthy, and, since Betty and he lived for the present in the Fifth Avenue house, he saw Sylvia constantly. Their conversation fastened when they met for luncheon, as they did frequently, revolved about threats which a few years back they hadn't dreamed would ever face them. Blodgett, George noticed, didn't point the finger of scorn at him for holding on to the mill stocks. George wouldn't have minded if they had. They had originally cost him little, their total loss would not materially affect his fortune, and he was glad through them to have a personal share in the irritating and absorbing evolution in the mills. He heard of Allen frequently as a fiery and very successful organizer of trouble, and he sent for him when he thought the situation warranted it. Allen came readily enough, walking into the office, scorn of his London frocks, but evidently retentive of the habit of keeping neat and clean. The eyes, too, had altered, but not obviously, letting through, perhaps, a certain disillusionment.

"What are you doing to my mills?" George wanted to know. Allen, surprisingly, didn't lose his temper, listening to George's complaints without change of expression while he wandered about, his eyes taking in each detail of the richly furnished office. "The directors report that the men have refused to enter into a fair and

RECIPES FOR THE DAY

Lamb Stew—Cut the lamb in small pieces, put into sauce pan with one pint of stock or water and one pint of tomatoes. Cover and cook very slowly one and one-half hours. Add one-half cup chopped onion, one and one-half cups carrots and turnips chopped, one-half cup rice, salt and pepper; cover and cook gently until done.

April Fools' Day
Nothing very definite seems to be known about the origin of April Fools' day. It is very generally celebrated in widely different parts of the world and is a very old custom. Following are a few suggestions for entertaining on that date:

If you send written invitations they may be cut in the shape of a fool's cap, and decorated with sketches of a court jester. Each guest might be asked to describe the most foolish thing he ever did. The house might be in semi-darkness when the guests arrive, and then brilliantly lighted when they are more than half convinced that you are not expecting them. The table centerpiece is a doll dressed as a court jester, its arms full of spring flowers. Tiny wands wound with ribbon, a cluster of bells at the end, make pretty souvenirs with place cards tied to them. To choose partners for dinner take ribbons three-quarters of a yard long, and shut between them folding doors, the men on one side, the women on the other; each takes the end of a ribbon, and when the doors are opened the persons holding the same piece are mated. A good dinner menu would be: Bouillabaisse, devilled crabs, baked potatoes, asparagus, tomato salad, ice cream, coffee and cake. The "bouillabaisse" is creamed celery soup in deep, old-fashioned soup plates; "baked potatoes" are diced turnips, carrot cubes and green peas in the shells of baked potatoes, grated cheese over the top, and browned in the oven, and the other items of the menu may be changed and mixed as the ingenuity of the hostess may devise. The dessert might be made first and the bouillabaisse last.

Two April Fool Games—Announce to the guests that you have a new picture which you wish to show them, get them as curious as possible. Then when they are looking eagerly at the "picture" covered with a curtain, withdraw the curtain and reveal a mirror with the words "April Fool" written on it in soap. File sofa pillows, books, plants, etc., on the floor; then tell one of the guests to mark each article carefully in his mind, blindfold him and tell him to walk across the room. After the victim is blindfolded remove the obstacles, leaving the room clear. It is amusing to see the blindfolded man picking his way carefully among the supposed obstacles.

LAND COMPANY RECEIVER ASKED

(By Associated Press.)
Madison—A receiver was asked for the Lake Forest land company, a Madison concern, by Victor H. Arnold, president of the Madison Bond company, in a bill in equity filed with the United States district court here Tuesday. Assets of the company are set at $517,378 and liabilities at $822,528.

Two hundred pounds of moth balls were purchased by the Norma Talmadge costuming department for the packing up of the 1,100 costumes used in the scenes of Norma's brilliant photodrama, "The Duchess of Langeais." The costumes go into storage at the United studios in Los Angeles.

Prominent Men to Address Boys' and Girls' Dinner

J. A. Craig's dinner at the Y. M. C. A. on Saturday noon to the boys and girls and their parents interested in the Holstein club will be addressed by two of the prominent men in the dairy field. They are C. O. Collentine, animal husbandry specialist of the college of agriculture, and Earl J. Cooper, Chicago field man of the Holstein-Friesian association of America. Mr. Craig will preside.

Mr. Collentine will appraise the calves at the four grounds where the party will go after the meeting when 25 and 30 boys and girls will receive their calves to raise. The breeders are going to allow the children a 25 percent discount. Mr. Glasco, station agent, will be in charge of the party. The Holstein club are Thomas Rainey, Avalon; Ward Cullen, Milton Junction; Joseph Radtke, Brodhead; R. R. 4; Charles Hanks, Janesville; R. R. 2; Theodore Zick, Beloit; R. R. 2; Robert Wieland, Beloit; R. R. 2; Floyd Cole, Beloit; R. R. 2; Margaret and Elizabeth, Beloit; R. R. 2; Burton Holmbeck, Beloit; R. R. 2; Marvin Dresser, Beloit; R. R. 2; Irving Maun, Beloit; R. R. 2; John Clarke, Haver; and Randolph, Lorenzen and Elwood Hughes, Janesville.

Warn Against Claims by Chick Shippers

The Department of Markets warns the purchasers of baby chicks to beware of hatcheries advertising their chicks as "certified" or "inspected" but not actually inspected or certified. This form of advertising is apparently an attempt to create the impression that such hatcheries are on the Wisconsin State certified list. It is intended to mislead the customer, and concerns which must resort to such practices to sell their stock are certainly of questionable reliability.

Accredited hatcheries bear the state trade mark label stating clearly that they are from inspected stock. Unless this label is on the chick packages, the purchaser is not receiving "Wisconsin Standard Chicks." A complete list of Accredited Hatcheries may be secured by addressing the Wisconsin Department of Markets at Madison.

Fear Overproduction of Swine for Market

The corner seems to be turned and we are on an upward swing if the last two months' advance in hog, corn and wheat is a reliable criterion. What does the future have in store for the swine raiser? It is inevitable that the present situation will bring about an over-production in hogs. It always has and probably always will. The lack of inertia makes it difficult to see the present conditions will continue to cover. The man with a pork factory on his farm now is in a cleft stick. The clover will not be quite so soon. If the weather is a little drier on this summer and withholds rain, the clover will be shorter yet. Pork will not be so profitable next winter as it has been this winter. Fisher predicts that the hog raiser will keep the supply more equal to demand. Beef cattle show signs of coming back on the black side of the ledger.

Apply Dormant Spray Before Buds Start

Before the buds start, the dormant spray must be applied. It consists of concentrated lime sulphur which is used to control the San Jose and other scales. Reduce it down to where it tests about five degrees with the Baume hydrometer and put it on some day when there is no breeze. Try to cover the tree thoroughly. The first summer spray is of local asenite. By the way, I got some the other day that is supposed to contain dormant material. I wish to say that when once it is dissolved, it does not settle down to the bottom as does the old form. If this stuff really operates as it is claimed, it will save the grower a lot of money. Try to cover the tree thoroughly.

shells, allowing more than two bushels of tubers to each person in the state. The production record for the state is 20 million bushels or more than six times enough potatoes for the Wisconsin consumers for a year. A total of 12 million bushels of tubers were shipped out of the state last year, according to Mr. Milward. Already more than four million bushels have left the boundaries of Wisconsin this year.

It is estimated that 30,000 acres of new lands in Wisconsin will be planted to potatoes. Indications now point to a normal dissemination of seed throughout the state, the college reports.

SHOP CRAFTS HEAD ASKS LIVING WAGE

Pleads Before Rail Labor Board for Larger Rather Than Smaller Pay.

(By Associated Press.)
Chicago—The business concern which cannot meet its fixed charges is bankrupt; failure to provide a livelihood for living for its family—a working man's fixed charge—means eventual physical and moral bankruptcy to the nation. This was the axiom on which E. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts unions, based his plea for a living wage for the nation's rail workers Tuesday before the United States Railroad labor board.

Figures comparing railroad employees' expenditures for food with minimum requirements for bare subsistence as worked out by the University of California, showed that railroad mechanics in 1921 were able to purchase but 54 per cent of the meat, fish, milk and eggs necessary for maintenance of their families at the lowest level of safety, Mr. Jewell said.

Higher wages than a further cut were urged on the board by Mr. Jewell in his fight against the 10 per cent slash proposed by the 265 roads now before the board. Wages, he asserted, were "the life blood of the nation and reduction of wages to the bodies of citizens."

"The railroad industry does not today pay a living wage to the mechanics employed in its shops," said Mr. Jewell.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Gazette:
Of course we noticed the big add of the self appointed Citizens Committee which appeared in the Saturday evening Gazette.

They did not state clearly just what idea they are trying to convey, but column 5 of their table of figures seems to prove that the great state of Wisconsin did not pass that City Manager law for the sole benefit of any particular city. The very cordial invitation to enter into an open discussion opens the way for a few questions.

One question they might give some attention to: Why is a government like ours called a "Representative Government?"

We have the city divided into wards and we elect two aldermen for each ward and these fellows all get together and handle the cities business affairs. That is the theory before election. After election these fellows get together all right, and the first order of business is to throw "theory" in the waste basket. By virtue of their election these men are equal, and they may have been born equal, but that is as far as equality goes.

One of those fellows is going to be leader and all the others just followers. Our alderman council is no exception to that rule, and it is no secret that Mr. Dulin is the leader. Mr. Dulin is an ideal alderman. He is elected by the voters of his ward and it is his express business to look after the interests of that ward and he is not invited to come into any of the other wards and meddle with their business. They have their own representatives to attend to that. Then we sit up and take notice some day, that Mr. Dulin has done just what he was elected to do. His ward has paved streets, built a boulevard or flits merrily around over those pavements sprinkling away all the dust. Then we fellows in the other ward start out to find where their representatives are and what they are doing. On our way we break down in the ruts and get stuck in the mud. Thereat, we probably get mad at Mr. Dulin for we have heard that he is the czar of the Council and what he says is what is.

But election time is now near and we can just settle him. Oh no we won't. While it is early charged that Mr. Dulin is dictator of city affairs let it be remembered that no one outside of the 5th ward can vote either for or against him. In the government of the people, by the people, for the people, we are compelled to admit that when Mr. Dulin announced his stand for re-election, all the voters in all the other wards are just about as good as disfranchised.

Now, wouldn't it really be a nice thing for Jansville if we could have Mr. Dulin's interest spread out over the entire city instead of just the 5th ward? It is a pity that the Wisconsin City Manager law appears to offer just that possibility. And it does this much more: It provides a council of intelligent men to act as "snubbers" or "bumpers" or "shock-absorbers" or "recoil-springs" just as you choose to call it.

Respectfully submitted by
E. J. MANNING, 1ST WARD.

ERICK SUES CITY FOR LOSS OF SWEETHEART

Chicago—Erick Nordstrom lost his sweetheart more than 25 years ago and sued the city of Chicago for damages. The plaintiff, who is now 63,000 an outgrowth of the old case, was recorded in Nordstrom's name against the city.

Back in the early 90s, Mathilde Svenson, a beautiful Scandinavian maiden came to the United States. Erick loved her.

His suit was lost, he alleged, when a city detective circulated false stories about him and Mathilde married another.

CHIEF DISPOSES OF "HOOD" CAR ABANDONED HERE

Final disposition was made by Chief Charles Newman, Tuesday, of the dilapidated Ford touring car abandoned near Dunn's pasture here last fall by Grover Haight when he escaped from police after he had noticed them inspecting a "bottle" of moonshine in the car. Haight never came back to claim the car, but the mortgagee did.

From papers shown authorities here Tuesday by J. S. Bailey, Rockford, it appears that Haight bought the car for $250, paying $75 down and giving a mortgage for $175 on it to the Williamson Motor company of that city. The Williamson company was given permission by authorities to reclaim the car to satisfy the mortgage.

"We want to satisfy the mortgage to any great extent," said Chief Newman. "Any man who'd give more than $25 for it would be foolish, but we'll let you have it anyway."

The car was towed back to Rockford from the city's old barn on North Jackson street, where it had been stored all winter.

KIWANIS TO OBSERVE CANADIAN-AMERICAN WEEK IN 2 LANDS

Pointing out that the United States agreed to restriction of armament on the Great Lakes in April, 1918, the Kiwanis club international has designated the week of April 2-7 for the observance of Canadian and United States days by the 87 Kiwanis clubs. Canada has offered to send as many speakers as desired by clubs in the United States and a similar list of United States speakers will be maintained for Canadian clubs. Secretary Hughes is expected to address a Kiwanis gathering in Washington and numerous college presidents, jurists and others will contribute to the program. Each club will hold its observance on the day of its regular meeting during the week designated.

of its regular meeting during the week designated.

Kiwanians say the purpose of these arrangements is to further friendship between the two English speaking peoples of North America, and to disseminate information which will give the United States more knowledge about Canada, and vice versa. They add that the recent conference for limitation of armaments gives significance to the Lush-Bagot agreement of Monrovia's administration, which the observance will commemorate and which accomplished a practical disarmament on the Great Lakes.

The Jansville Kiwanis is planning to observe a day during the week in carrying out the program.

The Six Arrows

illustrate some of the points at which the chiropractor adjusts for misaligned vertebrae. When these spinal vertebrae are in correct adjustment health results.

WHEN A BODY IS SAILING

WHENEVER there is disease or suffering in some part of the body, Chiropractic has demonstrated that it is due to the pressure of spinal bones on the nerves that should feed those affected organs. Invariably when this pressure is relieved by Chiropractic Adjustments, the trouble vanishes and healthy conditions are restored.

That is why, if you go to a Chiropractor to be relieved of severe headaches or other troubles, he adjusts that part of the spine where certain nerves are pressed (or squeezed) by the movable bones of the spine. He adjusts the bones back to normal position, thus removing the pressure. Nature's healing forces are set free to build up and strengthen the weakened or diseased parts.

Experience has shown that there is hardly a case of disease or ailment that has not been benefited by Chiropractic Adjustments of the spine. The Chiropractor knows just what part of the spine to adjust for the different troubles. It's all a part of his science and his training.

CHIROPRACTIC

The Better Way to Health

is never followed by adverse results. Certainly it has never done anyone any harm, but it has done thousands an immeasurable amount of good. If you are ailing, no doubt the trouble lies in your spine. Try Chiropractic and prove its merits.

Chiropractic Helped This Young Man

A Jansville young man who had previously suffered intense abdominal pains, and who could not eat substantial foods and was suffering from lack of sleep, was told that he had Appendicitis and an operation was necessary. A friend suggested Chiropractic and today the young man is in better health than he has enjoyed for some years. He says, "Chiropractic certainly did wonders for me. I can now eat anything, I sleep soundly every night, and the pain in my stomach is all gone. I am certainly grateful to Chiropractic and to you for what you did for me. I never felt better in my life."

The Spino-graphic X-Ray in this case divulged the fact that two of the young man's spinal vertebrae were out of line causing impingement on the nerves which lead to the stomach with the result of bad condition. With a comparatively few adjustments these vertebrae were properly adjusted to their normal condition and health resulted. Another grateful, enthusiastic booster for Chiropractic was made.

Illuminated Chart of the Human System

There may be seen at this time in The Gazette window an illuminated chart of the human system showing the relationship of the various spinal-segments or vertebrae to the organs of the body. This chart is well worth seeing and is very complete and contains thereon a great deal of information of interest.

This "Printed" Pattern Is Good News for Mothers

BECAUSE it has instructions clearly "printed" on each piece to simplify sewing—no puzzling perforations.

A "printed" cutting line, replacing the old pattern edges, insures absolute accuracy in cutting and does away with the misfitting that gives a home made look.

New McCall Pattern "it's printed" and Low-Priced Materials helps mothers to plan children's Easter Coats, new best Frocks, and lots of every-day dresses. Checked and Plaid Gingham, Chambrays, Organdies, Pongee, light weight Serges and Jerseys in our Piece Goods Section have the sturdy quality that particularly suits them for children's clothes.

Now even an inexperienced sewer can make up these materials with the new "printed" Pattern and have more clothes than ever before and yet have them cost no more than usual.

Sewing is more successful with the New McCall Pattern, "it's printed"
